
TOWARD A GLOBAL PACT FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

THE GLOBAL THREAT ON THE ENVIRONMENT...

"We have only one Earth" as said at the UN environmental conference of 1972 in Stockholm. However, more than 45 years later, all the environmental indicators are red, whether for the climate, animal and plant species preservation, or air, land, and ocean pollution.

Each citizen of the world knows it is now urgent to act globally. After the fundamental step of the 2015 Paris Climate Agreement, there needs to be a boost in international action and support in the adoption of the Global Pact for the Environment.

... TO AFFIRM THE RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF CITIZENS AND GOVERNMENTS TOWARDS THE PLANET

Founded both on the right to live in a healthy environment and on the duty to take care of the environment, the Global Pact will give citizens the legal tools to become actors in the protection of the planet. It will recognize the fundamental principles of prevention and remediation of environmental damage and will establish the tools to implement them (right to information and to public participation, right to access to environmental justice).

The Pact will favor the harmonization and clarification of the standards for companies, in order to avoid environmental dumping which is just as dangerous for jobs as for the planet. The Pact will inspire legislators and judges to adopt ambitious legal solutions for the environment..

... CALLS FOR GLOBAL ACTION...

Beyond the symbolism, the Pact will allow the emergence of a global legal framework that better protects our planet, all while filling the gaps in international environmental law. The Pact will unify international law that is currently fragmented between sectorial treaties (climate, biodiversity, pollution...), which are essential texts but hardly accessible to citizens.

Since everything is interconnected within ecosystems, the Pact globally envisions the question of protecting the planet. Unlike the existing agreements that only focus on limiting subjects, the Pact aims to be the first international treaty to address the matter of environment as a whole.

CURRENT STATUS ?

The negotiations are still ongoing between states, since initiated by a vote from the UN General Assembly, May 10, 2018. While we celebrate the 70th year anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the time has come to start writing a new page in history.

The Global Pact for the Environment is a necessity that is long overdue. Let's act today for a better tomorrow.

We all have a role to play.
